This was the only reason he could give for the failure of the government to obtain a sufficient supply of bullion at the Carson City mint to keep it running twelve months in the year instead of three months, as at present.

COMMENT BY THE EASTERN PRESS

The "World" on the Murder and California Moral and Legal Business in General

New York April 24 —The World says So far as concerns the late DeYoung there seems to be no occasion for the excitement which it is reported that his murder occasioned in San Francisco Certainly nobody who knows anything of the situation in that city will think of considering him a representative of the substantial and law abiding citizens whose rights are attacked by the party of Kearney and Kalloch For a long time De Young's paper was the organ of Kearney and his confederates and did all the mischief in its power to the honest industries and legitimate interests of California The quarrel between DeYoung and Kearney was not supposed to have been brought about by any excess of public spirit on the part of the former and it was carried by both parties in the same spirit and by the same methods which both had employed against the respectable Americans and the helpless Chinese of the state Finally DeYoung had made a murderous attack upon the father of the man who has now murdered him apparently because the elder Kalloch had been victorious in a contest of scurrility DeYoung took the pistol and has perished by the pistol He invited the fate which has befallen him His own justification of his own unsuccessful attempt to murder the elder Kalloch is quite as complete a justification on precisely the same grounds for the successful attempt of the younger Kalloch to murder DeYoung If the vendetta were to be waged to the extermination of both families there would be very likely little to regret in the result That however is altogether beside the question The law has been conspicuously defied by the son of the chief magistrate of San Francisco who has himself made use of his office to excite resistance to the law which his official business is to uphold People are not permitted in civilized communities to fight out their feuds with pistols nor is it a good defense or a defense at all to a charge of murder that the murdered man was a man of bad character who conducted controversies in a scurrilous manner or even that he had attempted the life of the father of his murderer Considering the relations which the murdered man and the murderer sustained to the people of San Francisco the people of San Francisco are justified in asking whether law and order exist at all in San Francisco The present situation of Kearney is a gratifying evidence that the law is superior to one of the ringleaders of the mob though another ringleader of the mob is the mayor of the city A prompt and impartial trial of the mayor's son for murder will afford another and equally needful assurance on this point. This assurance it especially behooves the mob mayor to afford for if San Francisco is to revert to a condition of anarchy and every man in it is to be forced to rely upon himself or the defense of his rights and the maintenance of order the history of San Francisco contains at least one emphatic proof that the criminal classes and their representatives are likely to be the earliest and worst sufferers

No Sympathy for Either Party

New York April 26 — All the journals have articles deploring the Kalloch DeYoung affair, in some of which the opinion is given that the end is not yet. Comments are strangely unanimous in one particular and that is the utter lack of sympathy for either party

The Tribune's Comment

The Tribune says The motive of the San Francisco murder is now plain Young Kalloch knew what his father's enemy had been doing in the east DeYoung had come through Kansas and subsequently had visited Boston avowedly to get the particulars of Kalloch's early career, which is alleged to have been dishonorable He had boasted that he would be able to bring before the jury which was to sit in judgment on his own offense proof of all that he had ever charged against Kalloch ... father who ... for this information ... had been compiled and ... a good sized pamphlet which the younger Kalloch had seen It is likely that DeYoung relied upon his power to use this kind of evidence to keep Mayor Kalloch from pushing the prosecution It is a wretched business from every point of view and a hundred morals are to be drawn from it

The Washington 'Republic' on the Tragedy

Washington April 25 —Only one of the Washington newspapers to day makes any editorial allusion to the tragic news from San Francisco which aside from the bare announcement of the shooting is published on the first time here this morning The exception is Ramsdell's Republic which contains the following editorial Mr Kalloch has shot and killed Charles DeYoung for abusing his father just as DeYoung shot ... came near ... Kalloch for ... De Young ... Kearney is ... San Francisco ...

[illegible]

... such as ... just ... DeYoung were ... calculated ... with ... respect for the equal justice of the law ... and abusive licentiousness in the ... is as reprehensible as on the sand lots ... on the part of the DeYoungs is as ... as violence on the part of Kalloch ... equal justice be done to all and not only ... property be protected but labor content

The Chicago Press on the Murder

Chicago April —Comments of the papers on the San Francisco tragedy agree in denouncing ... as a cold blooded lawless performance which every good citizen condemns ... agree also that DeYoung's disreputable journalism have produced just such ... The Times has a long article reviewing ... career of Charles DeYoung and ... Kalloch

Gladstone had Granville Lord Hartington and Wm P Adam have been in consultation at Gladstone's house ... lord high chancellor

Gladstone Cordially Greeted in London—The Probable Cabinet

Gladstone ... making his way through ... was ... crowds

The Standard says It is confidently anticipated that Granville will be foreign minister It is understood that Gochen will not enter the ministry and that Roberts will receive the peerage There will be great difficulty in offering Henry Fawcett a seat in the cabinet owing to his blindness

Much Expected from Gladstone.

London April 24 —The Times says at Gladstone's age he would hardly have chosen to combine the two such arduous offices as those of prime minister and chancellor of the exchequer without hope of being able to render the country service in each capacity

The Spectator strongly reproves many tory journals for bringing the Queen's name into the discussion on the premiership It expects from Gladstone's government a policy of sober practical reform which will present the greatest contrast by its plainness in industry and justice to the policy of the administration which the country has just consigned to the limbo of political failure

DIVERGENT STATEMENTS.

Counter Memorials from the Portland Board of Trade and the Astoria Chamber of Commerce

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN]

Washington April 23 —Senator Slater to day presented resolutions telegraphed to him from the Portland board of trade strongly urging the appropriation by congress at this session of at least $100 000 to continue the present work of improving the Lower Columbia river including the mouth of the Willamette He also presented though not with his approval a series of resolutions telegraphed as a memorial from the Astoria chamber of commerce by which that body earnestly protests against any further expenditure of large amounts of money in the endeavor to open a channel in the Columbia and Willamette rivers for the deepest draft vessels a distance of 120 miles inland while the improvement of the Columbia river bar and the protection of Fort Stevens at the mouth of that river remain entirely neglected The Astoria memorialists insist that the matter of paramount importance to Oregon and Washington territory and commerce generally is to prevent the further shoaling of the Columbia river bar and to deepen the channel so as to admit the passage of the largest vessels at all seasonable times and to prevent the further encroachment of the sea at Fort Stevens Slater says with reference to these notably divergent memorials that he himself is in favor of reasonable appropriations for improvement of the mouth of the Columbia but he is not willing to relinquish the opportunity of getting appropriations for the Willamette and Lower Columbia rivers to await the chances of obtaining legislation for deepening the channel at the Columbia bar for which no department recommendation has yet been made The engineer of the department on the contrary recommending simply that $5000 be appropriated for further surveys at that point.

SPOFFORD-KELLOGG

The Case Soon to Come Up —The Chances in Favor of Kellogg

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN]

Washington April 23 —The Spofford Kellogg case having at last been brought before the senate for action is once more a topic of conversation in Washington political circles and seems likely to attract a large share of public attention for a considerable period There are different opinions as to the time the consideration of the case will commence but in regard to its final disposition the betting favors the belief that the resolution to oust Kellogg will be defeated It is said and with a good show of authority that there is at least eight or ten democratic senators who held that the case is res a judicata and will so vote When the republicans in the last congress attempted to reopen the Butler case every democrat voted against it on the ground that it had already been settled and Kellogg's title to his seat is in this respect even stronger than Butler's for Butler was admitted upon a single motion that he be sworn in whereas the resolution under which Kellogg was admitted declared explicitly that he was lawfully entitled to a seat upon the merits of the case Butler and Kellogg were sworn in at the same time There are democratic senators who maintain that Butler and Kellogg were all ... on a compromise between republicans and democrats and the latter would be guilty of a breach of faith in voting to oust Kellogg ... doctrine of res adjudicata ... with those who hold ... to defeat the ... ST HELENS April 24 1880

To the Editor of the Oregonian

I have just read an article in your paper about the Patrick cipher dispatch signed T Jefferson Smith which is my name I am friendly here with a distant relative of Judge Kelly and desire to say that I did not write it I say though now what I always declare publicly that I will not vote for a man for judge when that man is proved to be willing to bribe an officer of the government I was named after Thos Jefferson and I and all my people are democrats ... I always fear that a man who is willing to bribe judges others by himself The briber is worse than the man who is bribed Whether Kelly is guilty I decline to say Respectfully

TUESDAY MORNING APRIL [illegible] 188[illegible]

THE LAST DITCH

Here of late the democratic party has gone before the country with something like pronounced principles or purposes. Its principles or purposes have for many years been objectionable to the country, and have therefore been repeatedly rejected. Still the party has stood before the country with something like a definite political aim. Hence it has usually been able to rally its forces which have been largely swelled by men who have joined it from mere love of opposition to the party in the ascendant. Only a year ago it was aggressive. But now hesitation and timidity characterize its course. Senator Vance of North Carolina the other day spoke with some indignation and in a tone of reproach of the present attitude of his party. It had been, he said, in times past a live aggressive party bold enough to deserve and command success. Now it was a party of inaction and timidity. It had given up state rights, it had surrendered free trade, it was now actually standing guard in the other house over a protective tariff while in the senate men who should lead an aggressive policy were alarmed at the idea even of ousting Kellogg of Louisiana and saving their party majority by seating a friend in his place. Cowardice ruled the hour and the party could not summon its adherents or command their support, unless it should take an earnest and aggressive course. And therefore he protested against the policy of trying to sustain a party by an endeavor to keep it on both sides of all political questions. Success did not lie that way.

For many years the democracy of New York have led their party. Four times in succession have they furnished the candidate for the presidency. And again they are ready with a candidate and a policy. But what do they present to inspire the party with great purposes? A wail over Mr Tilden and a threnody about "the great fraud." This would indicate that the democratic party is going into the national contest now at hand on the issue of alleged fraud in the seating of President Hayes. It is to turn to those things which are behind, refusing to look unto those which are before. If there is to be a "fraud" platform, of course Mr Tilden will be placed upon it. He will be heralded as the great victim whose wrongs are to be redressed. But the cry of fraud will be understood as coming with peculiar propriety and unction from the source from which emanated the cipher dispatches, the Oregon electoral swindle and the attempt to buy southern returning boards. Moreover the electoral commission was a thing of democratic creation. The law which authorized it was carried mainly by democratic votes in the two houses and against republican protests. It so happened that those who had made the game didn't play so well as they had packed the cards for it. Hence when the result was not as they intended they could only find vent of their feelings in the cry of "fraud," and all other democratic principles, it appears, are now to be subordinated to and sunk in this one prolonged lamentation. Even in the democratic platform adopted in our state there is a plaintive utterance of the same kind. We have been told that in the convention the hand of Justice Field was manifest, but the voice clearly was the voice of the claimant of Gramercy Park, and his own convention in New York gives it volume and emphasis, to roll it out again over the land.

If the democratic party has no platform but the grievances of Mr Tilden it is surely in a bad way. Yet evidently it considers this its only safe ground. It is afraid to renew its fight against the election laws which it made the occasion of the extra session and pursued with extreme violence till the elections of last year brought it up with a sudden check. It fears to re-affirm the fundamental principle of Yazoo democracy, which relies upon the double barreled shot-gun as the most potent instrument with which to confute the argument of an adversary. It has practically abandoned the free trade doctrine, lest it lose seats in congress from eastern monopoly districts. Even state supremacy, its most cherished and characteristic principle, it hesitates to reaffirm or reaffirms with extremely cautious limitations. But on one thing it does come out strong. It does say that the guileless man of Gramercy Park, to whose house the appeal for money to buy an Oregon elector was sent—that appeal which Senator Kelly, now of our supreme court, "fully endorsed"—has been dealt with shamefully in that he did not get the said elector, and that the whole party outraged by the failure, will never condone the fraud. The man who first called the democratic party an organized blunder had a perception of the exact fitness of things rarely surpassed. The cry of fraud is a lament that the money expended to control in a corrupt way the count and return of 1876 was spent in vain. Is this the final principle on which a great party is to stake its claims for further existence? Is it what the southern wing of the party in years gone by when there was unpleasantness in the land, was wont to call the last ditch? It looks that way.

COWARDICE OF SUICIDE

Almost daily the newspapers spread before the public the details of some new suicide. Usually the interesting traits of character which were possessed by the deceased are dwelt upon and the sympathies of the reader are often enlisted, until he is likely to get in his mind a confused association of agreeable qualities mixed up with that peculiar mode of death.

It is a matter of very grave doubt whether it is possible to print accounts of suicide in such a manner as not to increase the number of suicides. When a story of self-destruction in some peculiar way is printed, it is often followed by another similar case within a short time. There are many evidences going to show that dwelling upon suicide has a tendency to incite persons to self destruction. Where a garrison was established at one time, in Europe, a soldier hanged himself to a post in the yard. Within a few months eleven men had hanged themselves to that particular post. The post was removed and there was not another suicide.

But it is practically impossible to abolish the custom of giving publicity to suicides with all particulars. And perhaps it would be hard if a man's virtues could never be extolled because he died by his own hand. But yet it might exercise a salutary effect if the press were generally to characterize suicide by whomever committed as an act of cowardice, for such it often is, instead of excusing it on every occasion as a proof of mental derangement, for such it often is not. A majority of suicides are men who quail before the adverse circumstances of life. Is not self destruction under such motive or incitement cowardice? If not cowardice what is it?

To the old Roman mind suicide under adversity was an act of supreme courage, but this idea arose in a great degree from the truculence of the times. Defeated leaders knew that death awaited them at the hands of enemies and so with their own hand terminated their existence. But it is probable that among the common people of the [illegible] Roman world suicide was never so prevalent as it is among the like classes in civilized countries now. Christianity by denouncing punishment of self murder after death has been a great restraining influence and not a few thinkers profess to find in the spread of so-called liberal opinions as to a future state a reason for the increased tendency to suicide in modern times. But this opens a question too wide for discussion here. We are speaking [illegible] the duties of journalism as [illegible] publication of details of suicide [illegible] character of those who commit [illegible] self destruction. [illegible] the details of such cases our [illegible] not refuse to give [illegible] avoid reference to the virtues [illegible] when he is laid [illegible] [illegible] many cases [illegible] [illegible] just that at last by one crowning act the destroyer of his own life writes coward after his name.

Incredible as it may seem it is nevertheless a fact that the state of New York has a wilderness containing a greater area of hitherto unexplored territory than can be found in all the other states east of the Rocky mountains combined. This assumption, claim, fact or whatever it may be is derived from the report of the well known surveyor Verplanck Colvin of the result of his four years labor in accomplishing a topographical survey of the Adirondack region. Mr Colvin and his assistants have travelled through this wilderness slaying panthers, capturing huge trout and penetrating regions hitherto no more familiar to human ken than the poles, and he believes there is much land there yet which the foot of man has never trod. His description of the region will doubtless do much to attract summer visitors to those secluded haunts of nature where a few weeks sojourn would be far more beneficial to health than are the social bickerings and mineral slops of a thousand Saratogas.

In a talk with a visitor recently President Hayes said "I believe the last half of my administration has been as free from perplexities and troubles as ever falls to the lot of an incumbent of the presidential chair. At the outset there were misunderstandings and misapprehensions but I think that in general a good degree of harmony now exists and that the administration of affairs is on the whole such as meet approval. I have been often accused of taking optimistic views but I think throughout the country in general there has been a revival of just such views the past twelve months and I am not sure but that everybody is better off for having taken hopeful and reasonable views of the future of this great country."

By the action of the republican convention of Georgia a serious break is made in the programme of the Grant boomsters to get the united delegations from the southern states to the Chicago convention. Grant gets little aid from Georgia, the Blaine men claiming fifteen of the twenty two delegates, while Sherman has a number. Of course these twenty two delegates represent no possibility of electoral votes, and it is for the very reason they ought to be "set off" in the convention against like non representative delegates from Kentucky and Missouri which are instructed for Grant. Another break or two in the southern line will make it clear that Grant cannot possibly be nominated and his name will be withdrawn.

No man's republicanism can be impugned on the ground that he is opposed to the third term. Had the republican convention of Oregon declared against it it would only have followed very important precedents. The last time the party was heard from on this issue it declared very positively against it. Nine of the leading republican states—New Hampshire, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota and California—adopted resolutions in 1875 pronouncing Washington's example a fundamental rule in the unwritten law of the republic. Hence from these precedents among other reasons THE OREGONIAN saw no cause to be timid about a resolution against the third term project.

In one week recently, in London alone 12 500 000 pounds of canned meats were sold worth upwards of $1 000 000. About two fifths of the cheese consumed in Great Britain is foreign, the larger portion being American, and costing about $50 000,000 annually. Two-thirds of the butter consumed by our cousins is foreign and they spend every year about $12 500 000 in imported eggs—chiefly French. About the same amount is spent in potatoes and $2 500 000 in onions.

Very properly the senate committee on railroads has reported a bill to extend the time of the Northern Pacific land grant. This should have been done long ago. The bill is favorable to the company, as well as to the interests of the whole northwest, including the city of Portland. It will probably pass the senate without serious opposition, but may not get through the house till next session.

Republicans of ten counties in Illinois have held conventions so far and elected delegates to their state convention. Of these delegates 49 are for Blaine, 20 for Grant, 1 for Sherman, and 1 for Washburne. It is believed that the relative strength of Blaine and Grant in the full convention will be about as the figures above given indicate—that is Blaine will have two to Grant's one.

The Oregon delegation to Cincinnati says the Jacksonville Times, whose editor is one of the delegates, should be solid for Tilden. The state convention it adds unequivocally sat down on the embryo Field boom, and if the judge receives five out of the six votes of this state it will be because the delegates refuse to voice the will of the democracy of Oregon.

The present number of THE OREGONIAN contains a larger amount of general news dispatches than ever before appeared in a single issue of a daily paper on the Pacific slope. Much of the news is of unusual interest and importance. Its transmission has been taxing the endurance of the telegraph operators severely during the past thirty hours.

If anybody had been deluding himself with the supposition that Mr Tilden was about to decline being a candidate he would do well to search for disenchantment in the proceedings of Mr Tilden's New York convention. Like our flag, in the words of the poet S J T is still there.

West Virginia delegates to Chicago will it is believed be unanimous against the third term. Conventions held in several of the most important counties have passed strong resolutions looking that way.

Gen Grant's best friends are not those who would have him descend from his high position and mar his great fame by a scramble for the presidency because they hope to get office under him.

Our supplement to day contains eight columns of telegraphic news from all parts of the world.

The Daily Oregonian.

TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 27, 1880.

CITY.

BENEFIT TO JOHN MAGUIRE.—Some of our prominent citizens have undertaken to give Mr. Maguire a complimentary benefit, which to him, will, at the present time, prove very acceptable. Some of the best dramatic and musical treats presented in this city is owing to his enterprise, which, while affording pleasure to the amusement going public, has in himself culminated in serious financial loss. It is to be hoped the benefit will be of so substantial a nature as to stimulate him to keep on for the "good time coming." He has proved himself possessed of much perseverance and energy in catering to this public, and ought to have a bumper house on this occasion.

WHAT "LIMITED" MEANS.—Many inquiries have been made of THE OREGONIAN for the meaning of the word "limited," as used in connection with the Oregon Railway Company. In this country, stockholders of corporations are liable only for the amount of stock held, but in Scotland stockholders are liable for all debts of a corporation unless in the articles of association they limit themselves. In such articles they may become responsible for simply each member's amount of stock, or for twice, three, four or any number of times the stock. The amount of liability for each share is fixed in the articles of association, and the corporation is then known as "limited."

OUT OF DANGER.—The young man Charles Lambert, to whom was administered by mistake a dose of carbolic acid, is at St. Vincent hospital, and is rapidly recovering from the effects of the poison. In justice to all parties concerned, it may be stated that the only thing which gave the patient relief, and which doubtless saved his life, was the use of the stomach pump. Soon after the discovery that the young man had been poisoned, Dr. Glenn was called, who at once brought the pump into requisition, emptying the stomach of the poison, then forcing down sweet oil and milk to neutralize the corrosive effects of the acid and heal the irritation.

PISCICULTURE.—The Telegram says: "Much attention is being given to fish culture in various parts of the state at the present time. The gentlemen at Eugene City interested in introducing the carp into our streams, received six of those valuable fish from California by express on Tuesday. They were shipped in a small tank, and do not appear much worse for their journey of over a thousand miles. The entire cost of the lot amounted to $35. They have been placed in a small pond prepared for the purpose, near McLanahan's residence. Capt. John Harlow, of this city, will receive a shipment by the next steamer from San Francisco."

HE AIN'T HAPPY.—John Thompson alias Casey, the fellow who purloined several coats and a hat last Saturday from one of the stores on First street, was tried yesterday before Judge Stearns charged with larceny. He was found guilty and sentenced to the county jail for three months. Thompson will be tried to-day on another charge and will probably get about the same dose of justice. He is unhappy over the outlook.

LINE COMPLETED.—For more than ten days past a force of men under charge of John Gooch, has been engaged in constructing a telegraph line from Independence, in Polk county, to Corvallis. The line was completed last Friday and the force returned to the city. This line has been constructed along the narrow gauge railroad and will be used by the railway company in transacting their business.

THE NEW FERRY COMPANY.—The Jefferson Street Ferry Co., recently organized will in a few days present a petition to the county court praying for a license to keep a ferry across the Willamette river between the foot of Jefferson street in this city and the foot of Caruthers street in East Portland. The petition has been generally signed by business men and the permit will doubtless be granted.

FIRST DAY'S WORK.—The Astorian of yesterday says: "Badollet & Co, yesterday had their first day's work. Some time ago the house was presented with a fine American flag by Mr. W. T. Coleman. Yesterday they acknowledged the compliment by flinging it to the breeze, and also in honor of the first boat bringing to the cannery 100 fish. Their high boat yesterday was 100."

MONEY PAID.—County Treasurer Showers has paid out the following amounts during the past few weeks: State tax in full, $74,-[illegible]; school tax in full, $31,800 5[illegible]. In addition, he has paid $11,109 for the March distribution of the school money for this county. Between April 5th and 24th he has paid out in county warrants the sum of $68,-803.

A SAVAGE FIGHT.—Several days ago an Indian known as Charlie got into an altercation with another Indian at Cathlamet, on the Lower Columbia, during which he received some very severe wounds from an axe in the hands of his antagonist. At last accounts Charlie was lying in a very critical condition and his recovery deemed hopeless.

THE NARROW GAUGE ROUTE FROM SILVERTON.—The line of the Oregon railway from Silverton, will take a direction little west of north and will cross Pudding river at the farm of G. G. Townsend. From there it will run almost northwest and cross the O. C. & R. R. at Woodburn. The route from Woodburn to the Willamette river has not been definitely fixed.

A COMING TREAT.—Mrs. D. F. Smith's benefit, to occur at New Market Theater on Friday evening, promises to be an unusually interesting entertainment. The best dramatic and musical talent of the city has volunteered for the occasion, and will appear in select exercises. The box sheet will open to-morrow morning.

SURVEY ON THE WESTSIDE FOR THE NARROW GAUGE R. R.—Mr. Will T. Webber, assistant engineer of the Oregon Railway Company, has completed a survey from Dayton to Portland for the proposed narrow gauge railroad. He reports a favorable line and one easy of construction, the greatest grade being 58 feet to the mile.

THUMB CRUSHED.—A few days ago Mr. E. Sorensen, proprietor of the Columbia Iron Works, while adjusting a governor belt in his shop below the city, received a severe flesh wound, lacerating the whole muscle of the thumb on the left hand. He now carries it in a sling, and probably will for several months.

IMPROVED RUN OF SALMON.—Thirteen fishing boats above Tongue Point which reported to the Astorian yesterday show an average of twenty salmon to each boat, for Sunday night's catch. The Welcome went down the river last night to serve as a tender to the fishing boats for the remainder of the season.

A HANDSOME SHOW WINDOW.—Robbins & Yates, No. 220 First street, have just fitted up one of the most attractive show windows in the city. The display of engravings, paintings, photographs, etc., are very fine and attracts much attention from passers by.

SEVERELY CUT.—We learn that a man named L. Johnson met with a very severe accident yesterday at one of the canneries on the lower Columbia. He accidentally lost his balance and falling on a fisherman's knife was cut in a very painful manner.

PICNIC.—The Colored Immigration Aid Society of this city will give a picnic at Canyon Garden, on Sunday, May 27th. Extensive preparations will be made for the picnic, and no effort will be spared to make a complete success of the affair.

Y. P. A.—The regular meeting of the Young People's Association will be held this (Tuesday) evening in the vestry of the Baptist church, commencing at 7:30 P. M. sharp. All invited to come. Strangers made welcome.

THE ODD FELLOWS' PROMENADE CONCERT AND BALL.

Sixteen Hundred Ladies and Gentlemen in Attendance at Mechanics' Pavilion—The Most Brilliant Public Gathering of the Season.

On the 26th day of July 1817 Thomas Wildey, an English blacksmith who had been an active Odd Fellow in London for upwards of thirteen years, attracted to America by the genius of our free institutions and republican form of government, left England and arrived in the city of Baltimore the following September. He entered at once upon the active duties of the true Odd Fellow by relieving the distress of his fellow-workmen during the prevalence of yellow fever in that city in 1819. He and a brother Odd Fellow named Welch, who arrived soon after, conceived the idea of introducing the order into this country, and the forming of a lodge. The result of a conference between them was the publication of the following in the Baltimore American:

"A few members of the society of Odd Fellows will be glad to meet their brethren for consultation upon the subject of forming a lodge. The meeting will be held March 27, 1819."

A sufficient number of brethren were found; preliminary arrangements were made and on the 26th day of April following they met and instituted a lodge of Odd Fellows, to be known and called as Washington Lodge No. 1.

Wildey and Welch "builded better than they knew" and to commemorate their work, which has extended to every hamlet in the United States, Odd Fellows throughout this country hold exercises on the 26th of April, and in our city for a more worthy cause than called together the splendid crowd at Mechanics' Pavilion last night. It is doubtful whether another city of the same population in the country could have turned out a larger and more brilliant audience on a similar occasion. Not less than 1500 or 1600 persons were present, and the assemblage included many of the most prominent citizens, and was by no means confined to members of the order and their relatives.

The exercises by the order were delayed, and unnecessarily, half an hour, during which time the audience became justly impatient. At 8:30 the members, numbering about 250, in full regalia, headed by the Ellison battalion, under command of A. J. Marshall, marched from the art gallery where they had assembled, to the main floor, the orchestra playing Halifax march. They presented a splendid appearance. The following officers took places on the stage.

President committee of arrangements, Dr. S. E. Josephi, P. G.
Noble Grand, C. A. Dolph, P. G. M.
Vice Grand, H. E. Dosch, P. C. P.
Secretary, M. C. George, P. G.
Chaplain, W. J. Shipley, P. G.

The members formed in semi-circles about the stage and the usual exercises of the order then took place. The reading by M. C. George, "Odd-fellowship; What is it?" was probably interesting to those who heard it—few in the immense building did.

THE CONCERT.

The musical portion of the programme was not a complete success. In the first place the audience was thoroughly tired with unnecessary waiting; then the programme was too long, and the seating arrangements miserable. Those who had seats about the gallery railing would have heard well if a constant stream of a few careless visitors had not kept up a patter with rude footsteps. The acoustic qualities of the pavilion were for the first time tested, and it was an agreeable surprise when it was found that they were equal to any hall in the city. But the greater portion of the audience instead of being seated in front of the stage, so that sounds could pass over them, were placed under the galleries, and the waves of music reached the tympanums refracted and weak, and then there was no promenading except during solos. Probably not more than five hundred in the house were situated so that they could enjoy the programme. The overtures, "Light Cavalry," by Suppe; "Martha," and "Massaniello," by Auber, rendered by a well balanced orchestra, were given with precision and force. The fantasia "Rage in London" was thoroughly spoiled by the introduction of such worn out, undignified trifles as "Father, Dear Father, Come Home," "Pins and Needles," "Oh, no, no, Not for Joe," etc. The solos "Let me Love Thee," by Mr. Kinross, "Ernani Involami," by Mrs. J. D. Wilcox, "O Mio Fernando" by Mrs. J. B. Wyatt, "Farewell" by Mr. J. S. Graham, "Capriccioso" by Mrs. J. A. Cruzan, and "The Shipwright" by Mr. M. O. Lownsdale, were gems, and were given in that painstaking, artistic manner which has characterized their efforts on the concert stage. But the closing number, the new national anthem "Columbia," by Gilmore, recompensed all previous waiting. It was simply magnificent. The solo stanzas by Mrs. Cruzan were given clear, distinct, round and full, and the choruses with precision, spirit and power. "Columbia" must be recorded as one of the most enjoyable, if not the most enjoyable, piece of chorus singing ever presented to a Portland audience. The following ladies and gentlemen were the artists on this occasion:

THE BALL.

The pavilion never before presented as brilliant an appearance as at 11 o'clock last night, when with 300 well dressed ladies and gentlemen formed in quadrille sets, a thousand equally well dressed spectators in the gallery and on the main floor, (for a wonder the weather was delightful and allowed new spring garments and milliners' best productions to be exhibited) the rich decorations of flags, evergreens and Odd Fellows' emblems, the fountain adorned with ferns, mosses, lilies, ivy and blooming flowers, and the general tone of cheerfulness, good feeling and fellowship, the select orchestra struck up the music of the first dance. Waltzes schottisches, polkas mazurkas, and varzouviennes interspersed with varied quadrilles, were the order of the enjoyment, and as we go to press the night's entertainment was still at its hight.

A SUBSTANTIAL TESTIMONIAL.

Capt. Charles Thorn, the Retiring Master of the Steamer California, Presented with a Silver Set by the Officers of that Vessel.

A few days since mention was made in THE OREGONIAN of the fact that Capt. Charles Thorn, who for several years has had command of the steamer California plying between Portland and Sitka, had resigned his position and would leave soon with his family for San Francisco and then proceed east. Last evening the captain was made the recipient of a very handsome and substantial testimonial in the shape of an elegant silver tea set. The set was purchased by the officers of the steamer California, who have been long and intimately associated with Capt. Thorn and shared with the gallant old tar the dangers and labors of many a tempestuous voyage. It was presented to the retiring captain as a token of the sincere esteem and friendship in which he is held by his brother officers. The presentation took place in the parlor of the St. Charles hotel. Mr. Ed. C. Hughes, the courteous and efficient purser of the California, made the presentation speech, which was performed in a very neat and appropriate manner. Capt. Thorn responded in a style which while it lacked the grace and elegance of an orator, was not deficient in true feeling and appreciation. Toasts were proposed and responded to, and it may not be improper to state that more than one bumper was quaffed to the good health and prosperity of the gallant captain, his estimable wife and charming daughter. Mrs. Thorn, her accomplished daughter Miss Minnie, and a number of other ladies and gentlemen were present at the presentation. The set is valued at $[illegible]. Capt. Thorn and family will be passengers on the outgoing steamer, State of California. They will bear hence with them the best wishes of a host of friends.

Report of State Fair Committee on Wm. Scheffler's Wines and Brandy.

To the Board of Managers of the Oregon State Fair for the year 1879—DEAR SIRS: Your committee, appointed to report on the exhibit of wines and brandies, do respectfully report that they have thoroughly examined and tested the PORT, SHERRY and AMBER WINES put on exhibition by Mr. Wm. Scheffler, of St. Helens, Napa county, Cal., and that we have called in experts in aid of our judgment, and would feel that we were doing Mr. Scheffler great injustice did we simply report an exhibit of fine wines. The committee feel that they should go much further and say we find an exhibit of really very superior wines, which we feel justified in recommending to the confidence of all who have use for wines. We have every reason to believe them pure, and we can say for ourselves that they are delicious in their flavor.

We have also tested Mr. Scheffler's SANITARY (VACUUM DISTILLED) GRAPE BRANDY, and is pronounced by connoisseurs brought to our aid as being wonderfully smooth and inviting—and the fact that by the new process of distilling adopted by Mr. Scheffler, the brandy is freed from the fusil oils, is a desideratum never before attained, as we believe, and should and doubtless will make Mr. Scheffler the leading brandy manufacturer on this coast. We would recommend to all druggists a trial of this brandy and these wines. And your committee would recommend the award of the society's diploma for SUPERIOR BRANDY AND WINES.

The Oregon Kidney Tea has done my wife as much if not more good than any of the many remedies she has used for pains in the back, and I believe it to be a good remedy for the diseases which it is recommended for. A. M. COX.

Harrisburg, Oregon, December 31, 1879.
Some three months ago I was attacked with a severe pain in my back. I bought a package of the Oregon Kidney Tea, and by the time I had used one half of it was entirely relieved and have not been troubled since. I cheerfully recommend it to all who may be suffering from a lame or weak back as a pleasant safe and good remedy.

Your patronage respectfully solicited. I. G. Davidson, Photographer, First and Yamhill streets, Portland.

A GOOD THING.
German Syrup is the special prescription of Dr. A. Boschee, a celebrated German Physician, and is acknowledged to be one of the most fortunate discoveries in medicine. It quickly cures Coughs, Colds and all Lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does, the cause of the affection and leaving the parts in a strong and healthy condition. It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidly increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annually. Beware of medicines of similar names, lately introduced. Boschee's German Syrup was introduced in the United States in 1868, and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. Three doses will relieve any ordinary cough. Price 75 cents. Sample bottle, 10 cents.

VANCOUVER ITEMS.

(OCCASIONAL CORRESPONDENCE.)

There will be a railroad meeting at the city hall to-night. The object is to connect Portland with Vancouver. There is some interest manifested in that direction.

The concert given by the Sunday school and choir of the M. E. church in Brant's Hall last Friday evening was a success in every particular. The kindergarten songs by the children were rendered in that happy, pleasant style peculiar to children. The quartette and choruses, solos and recitations were very good and were well received by the audience. The Chinook chorus, "Cah Nesika Cose," [illegible] rendered by eight boys in suitable costume was a grand success. Mr. Humphrey deserves a great deal of credit for the the successful management of the entertainment.

FROM T. JACKSON SMITH.

PORTLAND, April 26, 1880.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

As my initials are the same as those of "T. Jefferson Smith," I write to say that I didn't furnish the article about the Patrick dispatch, though I fully endorse it. I was named Thomas Jackson Smith, after old Stonewall, and I am a democrat, but I can't vote for a man for judge who sought to bribe a presidential elector. I came from Virginia where such things always damn a man who seeks office. Respectfully, THOS. J. SMITH.

Attention! Attention! Attention!
Is called to the fact that we have just received, per steamer State of California, a LARGE BANKRUPT STOCK, purchased in New York by MR. J. FRANKLIN at 50 cents on the dollar, and the way we intend to show you that what we say is so, and not merely bragging, is by giving you a Price List that will astonish you all; and if these figures are not the LOWEST in Oregon, we will stand aside and take a back seat. Competition is the life of trade, and there is so much competition in Portland that goods must be sold low to gain trade, and owing to the facilities we have in having our own wholesale house in San Francisco, at 18 and 20 Battery street, we will again state that our prices cannot be beat.

In the home market business shows only a moderate degree of activity with but few changes since last report The breadstuffs trade is very quiet with but few parties urging the market either to buy or sell Wheat comes forward from up the Columbia in considerable quantities, and is of fair quality The receipts from this valley have declined to a nominal volume Quotations are to be only with a margin which must be extended to meet all the circumstances attending each particular transaction The best is difficult to place at $1 [illegible] and we hear of no higher offers while $1 60 @1 [illegible] would embrace very nearly all sales made for a week past.

Flour is quiet at $5 50 per bbl for leading brands of extra with the usual reduction for lower grades

Oats firm and in fair request at 4[illegible]@47½c per bushel

Our telegraphic advices indicate a stronger feeling in wool with a marked advance in London which has awakened more interest in the wool centers of this country In the local market buyers are still paying full rates but appear to be operating more cautiously The volume of receipts shows an important increase a good many growers as in former years shipping their product to San Francisco The clip as far as receipts have been examined, is put up in a manner which shows some improvement on the old style of packing wool dirt weeds and stones into bags, bales and bundles of all sizes and shapes But there is still a chance to improve in this respect.

Other products generally are in fair request with a good trade doing

EASTERN FREIGHTS AND MARKETS

NEW YORK April 24—California freights via Cape Horn were seldom less active than at the present writing and there is no prospect of any improvement. The causes of this general dullness have been given heretofore and it is unnecessary to repeat them further than to remark that until a check is put upon the downward course of prices for various articles of merchandise, there will be no more improvement. Rates are irregular and lower in some instances. Tonnage on berth is sufficient for all present requirements, and there is no disposition to increase it, hoping thereby to advance rates.

Overland freights also less active, and shipments amount to 5767 packages. Isthmus freights also very dull but mainly owing to the high rates of freight demanded by the new tariff

Freights at Boston are dull, there still being no vessel on the berths.

Railroad freights at Boston are quite active with shipments of 4955 packages.

At Philadelphia the market is dull. The Continent is well advanced but it will be some days before she closes.

LIVER PILLS,

Hepatitis or Liver Complaint

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs increases on pressure sometimes the pain is in the left side the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness, the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax the head is troubled with pain accompanied with a dull heavy sensation in the back part There is generally a considerable loss of memory accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which he ought to have been done A slight dry cough is sometimes an attendant The patient complains of weariness and debility he is easily startled his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin his spirits are low, and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it In fact he distrusts every remedy Several of the above symptoms attend the disease but cases have occurred where few of them existed yet examination of the body, after death has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged

AGUE AND FEVER

DR C McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER when taken with Quinine are productive of the most happy results No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them A FAIR TRIAL

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative they are unequaled

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS

The genuine are never sugar coated

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid with the impression DR McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C McLANE and FLEMING BROS on the wrappers

Insist upon having the genuine DR C McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros of Pittsburgh Pa the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation

MIDDLE AGED MEN.

There are many at the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with too frequent evacuations of the bladder often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examining the urinary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin milkish hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty ignorant of the cause which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Bill to Create a Customs District for Southern California

WASHINGTON April [illegible]—Senator Farley appeared before the senate committee on commerce in advocacy of his bill to create a new customs collection district in California with Wilmington as its port of entry He called attention to the fact, among other things that California with nearly 1200 miles of coast line had only two ports of entry whereas every state on the Atlantic coast has from three to 14 ports of entry He was encouraged by the committee to expect that a bill will be reported favorably

Scheme to Move the Carson Mint to Some Point in the Mississippi Valley

The senate finance committee to-day agreed to recommend the passage of the house bill which provides for increasing the pay of the San Francisco custom house night inspectors to the old rates of $4 per diem This is a reversal of the former action of the committee They reported the bill to the senate adversely a few weeks ago and it was forthwith indefinitely postponed but Senator Booth pressed a reconsideration with the result above stated

A majority of the house committee on coinage weights and measures are strongly inclined to recommend that the Carson mint be abolished and its machinery removed to some point in the Mississippi valley It appears that in view of the urgent efforts of representatives of several western cities to procure the establishment of a new mint at some one of their respective localities the committee asked director Burchard to inform them whether any additional mint is needed In reply he said that the government had already sufficient coinage facilities but they were seemingly not well distributed for he had found it impossible to obtain enough silver bullion at San Francisco at London prices to keep the San Francisco mint running to the desired capacity and at Carson City he could obtain hardly any bullion at proper prices Thus it happened that while the Philadelphia mint was crowded the San Francisco mint was running at only half its capacity, and the Carson mint was doing nothing The friends of St Louis on the committee then suggested that it would be a good thing to provide for the coinage of Colorado and New Mexico bullion at St Louis by bringing to that point the Carson mint machinery and director Burchard is not reported to have expressed any objections to the proposition although at the same time it is not claimed that he expressed himself in its favor Representative Daggett learning of this movement to-day has demanded an opportunity to be heard by the commissioner in regard to it, and he and Senator Jones will of course earnestly oppose it. Daggett has written to Secretary Sherman a series of questions designed to elicit the reasons why the experiment of purchasing bullion at Carson at San Francisco rates has not heretofore been tried and is entirely confident that the experiment now ordered will prove to be successful and satisfactory

The Immediate Deficiency Bill.

The so-called immediate deficiency bill which contains the appropriation of $[illegible]00 000 for marshals and their general deputies and $7600 for California election deputy marshals has advanced a long step to day towards enactment The house of representatives this afternoon concurred in most of the senate amendments and the remaining points of difference will be speedily adjusted by a committee of conference and the Pacific coast items have now been agreed to by both houses and are therefore fixed in the bill They are as follows For special deputy marshals [illegible] $[illegible]0 for completion first class [illegible] south Farallone Island [illegible] survey during the remainder of the current fiscal year $[illegible]000 to strengthen [illegible] steamer to be despatched from San Francisco for the relief of the officers and crews of the whaling barks Vigilant and Mount Wollaston now imprisoned in the Arctic ocean [illegible]

A Patriotic Measure

WASHINGTON April 24 A bill granting thirty condemned bronze cannon to the Fairmount Park Association of Philadelphia to make an equestrian statue of Maj Gen Meade passed the house [illegible] under the rules [illegible] indicate that the [illegible] dawned upon that body. The bill was in charge of Gen J W Johnston Virginia who engaged Gen Meade in many a sanguinary encounter and although all the confederate leaders were in their seats the bill was passed unanimously

Pending Bills Chances of Adjournment

WASHINGTON April 24 The marshals deficiency bill will probably reach the president early next week and it is the very decided impression that he will also approve this bill notwithstanding numerous republican criticisms upon its political rider None of the remaining appropriation bills will contain any riders and in case the marshals bill escapes a veto there will be no probability of further extensive and heated discussions on partisan issues in congress during the remainder of the session Some prominent friends of Gen Grant rather deprecate this because they argue that such discussions are sure to benefit his presidential candidacy The house is getting along with business very rapidly and there is now some prospect of an adjournment by the 1st of June Speaker Randall still insists that congress can adjourn by the 31st and it undoubtedly can do so if it avoids political discussion on appropriation bills and ignores almost all other business as the leaders of the majority very generally advise

A Tardy Measure

WASHINGTON April 21—Representative Page about two months ago requested the engineers of the department in charge of the San Joaquin river on the ground that he (Stewart) was opposed to its improvement and had made no estimate or recommendation on which to base an appropriation for it No reply being received to this written request Page renewed it a fortnight ago and threatened to bring the matter to the attention of the house of representatives if nothing were done but to day he received a letter from the chief engineer stating that Colonel Stewart under direction from the department has sent in an estimate of $40 000 for the improvement of the San Joaquin river which estimate will be forthwith transmitted to congress It comes so late, however the river and harbor bill being already nearly prepared by the house committee, that Page is doubtful whether he can get it considered but if the house fails to insert the desired item he will endeavor to have the bill amended in this respect in the senate

Unexpected Development in the Geneva Award Matter.

The action of the senate on the Geneva award bill to day was a great surprise to every one the universal expectation being that either the insurance companies or the war premium claimants would obtain a victory whereas the result of to day s final vote was a defeat for both of these contending parties. It was brought about suddenly by a combination of the insurance companies friends with the advocates of the theory that the money should remain in the public treasury for the benefit of the country at large This combination was effected as soon as the insurance companies were decisively defeated and proved successful by a narrow majority of two votes Booth and Farley voted steadfastly on the side of war premium claimants Jones of Nevada and Slater voted for the bill s indefinite postponement

The Debris Bill—Protests against the Proposed Changes in the Laws.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN

WASHINGTON April 24—The house mining committee to day on motion of Representative Berry instructed their chairman Mr Stevenson of Illinois to take advantage of the first possible opportunity to obtain action on the debris bill recently reported from the committee and now on the house calendar He is to exercise his own judgment as to the best means of bringing it for consideration and will endeavor to have it made a special order for some particular day by unanimous consent or failing in this by means of a motion to suspend the rules and adopt a resolution making it a special order [illegible] such motions in behalf of committees be admissible on the second and fourth Mondays of each month

Representative Daggett appeared before the house mining committee this morning and made an earnest argument against the whole bill of the public land commission so far as it proposes changes in the present mining laws He supported his argument against the proposition to limit the locations of issuing veins to vertical boundaries by reading to the committee numerous memorials on this subject from western miners and extracts from a large number of Pacific coast newspapers all opposing the contemplated change He suggested however that in case the committee believed it necessary to enact a new provision on the subject of boundaries of mining claims they might frame a provision which would be acceptable to all parties by limiting the system of square locations to such lodes as have a dip less than twenty five degrees The committee subsequently took this subject into consideration and practically agreed to amend the bill in the line of Daggett s proposition so as to provide both for the blanket lodes of Colorado and fissure veins of the Pacific coast Messrs Belford and Wagner were appointed a sub committee to put the proposed amendment into shape and they have agreed upon the following which will be formally adopted by the full committee at the next meeting

SECTION 3 That all mining claims located after the 1st day of September 1880 shall be bounded on the surface by straight lines and the right to minerals contained therein shall be confined within vertical planes passing downward through straight boundary lines, unless the dip of the lode or vein upon a horizontal at the line of contact with the vertical side planes be greater than thirty degrees in which case such vein or lode shall be limited by vertical planes though the end lines may be followed in its downward course to any depth between the side planes of said location

Mr Belford to-day stated that at the next meeting he would offer an amendment continuing in force the local laws as to records and the like The members from the Pacific coast generally express themselves as satisfied with the amendment offered to day and as it is certain that this amendment will be adopted the committee hope that the bill will be considered more acceptable

APPROPRIATION BILLS

The Army Bill Goes to the Senate—Its Provisions—The Navy Bill Passes the House

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN

WASHINGTON April 22—The senate to-day passed the army appropriation bill without any amendment whatever and consequently it [illegible] the president for his signature which it will undoubtedly receive as the bill of last year was approved by him [illegible] obtained a [illegible] of the clause concerning the employment of the army for [illegible] purposes on which [illegible] republican leaders in congress have based their objections to the present bill The amendments offered in the senate to-day by Edmunds [illegible] were voted down by the democrats [illegible] duplicates of those which were offered last year merely for the purpose of making a desired political record The only item of special Pacific coast interest in the bill is that which authorizes the president to detail retired army officers for service as professors at civil colleges This will enable the California State University to receive a military instructor and to retain the government arms at the academy [illegible] This bill as heretofore voted leaves the present force and organization of the army absolutely untouched

The naval appropriation bill which was [illegible] passed by the house of representatives to day contains an item of $[illegible] for preparing and publishing surveys of the Mexican coast [illegible] Pacific ocean Its appropriations for work on the navy yards are made as usual in sums applicable to the service at large [illegible] left to the discretion of the navy department [illegible] appropriations for permanent improvements at Mare Island and other navy yards belong to the sundry civil appropriation bill which has not yet been framed by the house committee

Weather and Crops in the Middle West

Cold weather and heavy rains have prevented seeding in most parts of the northwest and farmers are much behind with spring work This seems particularly the case in Minnesota Reports are conflicting about winter wheat. In Illinois it seems to be in excellent condition while in Iowa Minnesota and Wisconsin it has been seriously damaged by the open winter and in some counties it will be nearly a failure

[illegible] the Chinese miner [illegible] made a clean up at his diggings near [illegible] this week from which he obtained about $400 in gold dust This is the result of only a short run and [illegible] that he has some of the best diggings in southern Oregon

NEW YORK April 24—California freights via Cape Horn were seldom less active than at the present writing and there is no prospect of any improvement. The causes of this general dullness have been given heretofore and it is unnecessary to repeat them further than to remark that until a check is put upon the downward course of prices for various articles of merchandise there will be no more improvement. Rates are irregular and lower in some instances. Tonnage on berth is sufficient for all present requirements, and there is no disposition to increase it hoping thereby to advance rates

Overland freights also less active and shipments amount to [illegible] packages. Isthmus freights also very dull but mainly owing to the high rates of freight demanded by the new tariff

Freights at Boston are dull there still being no vessel on the berths

Railroad freights at Boston are quite active with shipments of 4955 packages.

At Philadelphia the market is dull. The Continental is well advanced but it will be some days before she closes

MY LOVE—WHOM I LOVED NOT

My old love whom I loved not
Is this your friendly hand?
Your voice with a tremble in it
Some [illegible] could understand
My old love whom I loved not
After so many years
Waiting in silence and pain
To meet with smiles not tears

My old love whom I loved not
Do you regret—not I—
That all died out which best were dead
All lived which could not die
Till at last we meet here
And clasp long empty hands
Keeping [illegible] all in secret safe
Which no one understands

You will have a name behind you
A life pure calm and long
But mine will fade from human ear
Like a forgotten song
You have lived to smile serenely
Over a grief long done
You will die with children round your bed
But I shall die alone

O kind love whom I loved not
O faithful firm and true
Did one friend linger near my grave
I think it would be you
Could I wish one heart to hold me
A little unforgot
I think it would be that heart of yours
My love—whom I loved not

By the author of John Halifax Gentleman

MY WIFE'S RELATIONS

Broiled spring chickens for tea, eh said I. And lobster salad and fried oysters. Upon my word this looks as if we were going to have company

So we may my dear said my wife looking a little guilty as she polished up the surface of the little silver tea tray with a new chamois leather. They are all coming to visit me—Uncle Silas and Aunt Millicent and the children and Cousin Joab and the two Miss Wilmerdings and my Aunt Louise to meet the Rev Mr Sparkwell from Minnesota, who married my cousin Jerusha Wilde. Mr Sparkwell is troubled with catarrh and he thinks of staying at our house for a few weeks while he is being treated by Dr [illegible]sem'

I put down my linen duster and brown parcels with some emphasis

'Oh, confound the Rev Mr Sparkwell said I

"John!" ejaculated my wife

'Well my dear I can't help it said I "It's not in human nature to endure everything. And I've been relationed out of all patience ever since our marriage. The Jenkinses went away last week, the Birdsalls took an affectionate leave yesterday, and now just as I was contemplating a peaceful evening by ourselves here's a new swarm hungrier than the rest just about to settle down upon us! In my opinion, Kitty my dear, relations should be abolished"

"I am surprised at you John said my wife "my own people that are so fond of me."

"That's where you are mistaken, dear," said I 'It's your comfortable spring beds and good cookery that they are fond of, not you'

'John'

'I'll be willing to wager a good round sum on the truth of my assertions" said I

'Because you have no relations yourself—"

"Thank Providence for that said I devoutly 'I was reared in a foundling asylum and have nobody to thank but myself for my tolerable success in the world'

"It's no reason you should find fault with mine, said Kitty with her bright blue eyes full of tears. And Mr Sparkwell is such a spiritually minded man, and dear Uncle Silas loves you just as if you were his only son, and Cousin Joab is so interested in the children"

"I'm much obliged to 'em," said I dryly "But I slept all last week on sofa cushions laid in the bath tub, and we had fourteen people here over the anniversaries and I was obliged to give up my room for a month last winter to old Mr Maxwell not to speak of our being half poisoned with Aunt Louisa's hygeian messes in the fall. When the poet said there's no place like home' I presume he meant when there were no relations visiting him. I'll tell you what, my dear," with a sudden inspiration, "I've a great mind formally to deed over this house to your relations, if they will agree solemnly to leave me in peace for the rest of my life wheresoever I may set up my family tents"

"Nonsense!' said my wife. 'Do go up stairs and change your things, and brush your hair and get ready for tea. They're all waiting in the best parlor and I was expecting your return to see about hiring some cot beds from the village hotel to put up in the attic for those four little Sparkwell children. You see, Aunt Louisa has the blue bedroom, and Cousin Joab sleeps in the little wing chamber, and Mr and Mrs Sparkwell will have our room, and—'

"Indeed!" said I "and we are to sleep in the barn I suppose'

"Don't be cross John,' said my wife appealingly 'One must be hospitable, you know. And I can easily make up the sofa bed in the back parlor for our use for a week or two"

I said nothing, but ground my teeth in silent despair as I sprang up stairs two steps at a time, made what changes I could in my toilet, by the aid of a ten by-twelve glass hung over the washstand of a stuffy little bath room

The Rev Mr Sparkwell is a big man, with a still bigger voice and a limp faded little wife, whose sole earthly interests seemed centered in her four white eyed, freckled-faced children. Uncle Silas and Aunt Millicent were a silent pair, with excellent appetites, and two tall boys, who giggled and snickered at each other in the intervals of the conversation

Cousin Joab talked incessantly with his mouth full, and the two Miss Wilmerdings served as general echoes to the rest, while Aunt Louisa devoured lobster salad ad libitum, and kept on sending up her cup for more green tea, until I trembled for her nerves

While my wife, care-full and troubled like Martha of old with many things looked ready to drop with the hospitable exertions she had made, poor I, sitting a mere cipher at the head of my table, felt as if I was keeping a boarding house without any of the pecuniary emoluments therefrom

'My trunks will be up in the six o'clock train" said Rev Mr Sparkwell 'I'll trouble you, Cousin, Poyntz to send an expressman to the depot for 'em. And if there's any apartment in this domicile Cousin Poyntz that could be fitted up as a study for my temporary use it would greatly facilitate my intellectual occupation during my sojourn in the suburbs of this great city. And I must beg that you will keep the house very still during the hours which I devote to study

Here my wife looked at me aghast thinking of little Johnny and the baby

'Never mind my dear I remarked sotto voce, we can easily get 'em boarded somewhere"

'And went on the Rev Mr Sparkwell "I should esteem it a favor if a horse and buggy could be procured for my daily use when going to Dr D[illegible]sem in the city as the motion of the train disagrees with my nervous system

'I don't happen to own a carriage said I 'but I might buy one

"Thank you thank you Cousin Poyntz said Sparkwell blandly

'And if there's any other little thing you should happen to want I added pray don't be backward in mentioning it

'No I won't Cousin Poyntz said the reverend gentleman with the utmost gravity

And I am bound to say that he kept his word

For three days I endured the swarm of visitors which literally infested my home and then I made up my mind that patience had ceased to be a virtue

I'll put a stop to this thing said I

I came home one night with a tragical expression on my face

"Katherine," said I to my wife I'm ruined'

"What!" cried all the company at once

"Those shares in the Western Union you know,' said I, smiting my forehead

'Yes dear gasped poor Kitty

They have gone down said I Not worth a penny

Oh John

I wish I had taken your advice and let em alone said I But after all it doesn't so much matter as if I had no friends

I looked beamingly around at my wife's relations. They returned the glance by the blankest of stares

If I can borrow two hundred dollars apiece of all these dear kindred said I with obtrusive cheerfulness and request Uncle Silas to endorse my business notes—

I couldn't think of such a thing hurriedly interrupted that gentleman

I should be most happy to oblige said Cousin Joab but I am quite out of funds at present

And I said the Rev Mr Sparkwell pushing back his chair must save what little share I possess in the world's filthy lucre to pay my passage and that of my family back to Minnesota

Surely cried I you will not go away and leave me in such pecuniary straits as these

The Rev Mr Sparkwell significantly buttoned up his pockets

It's every man's business to look after himself Cousin Poyntz said he and I don't scruple to say that it is downright dishonesty in a business man like yourself to get into such financial difficulties

And in fifteen minutes every cousin in the lot had upon one excuse or another vanished from the room to pack and prepare for immediate departure

I looked at my wife my wife looked at me. I burst out laughing. Kitty began to cry

My dear said I it's an easier job than I thought it would be. I didn't know but that it would be necessary for me to catch the small pox before I could get rid of your relations'

But are we very poor John. And must we give up this dear little cottage. Oh how cruel it is cousin Joab and Mr Sparkwell and Uncle Silas, and all of them not to help you. I know Mariana Wilmerding has five thousand dollars that she wants to put out at interest for she told me so only yesterday and—

Yes exactly said I "But probably she doesn't regard me as a good investment

After all I have done for them sobbed my wife

'Relations are only human my dear said I

The company took their leave without much ceremony of adieux" and that afternoon my wife came to me with tears in her eyes

John, said she 'will you tell me how much money you have lost in that horrid Western Union stock? Because I would rather know the worst at once.

Lost' repeated I, looking up from the newspaper which I was reading in Uncle Silas' favorite easy chair now vacated for the first time in many days 'Why, who said I had lost anything?'

You did"

"Excuse me, my dear I said nothing of the kind. I merely stated that the Western Union shares were not worth a penny. Neither were they to me as I had sold out all I possessed a week ago'

John!

'Yes my dear

'How could you?

"Very easily said I with a latent smile. My dear, I think if your relatives had stayed another week I should have committed suicide

THE TRIALS OF AN ENGAGED GIRL.

The Chaff and the Snubs to which She is Subject—A Lover as a Nuisance.

[From the Home Journal]

After all, the yoke of marriage is an apparatus that should sit on two pairs of shoulders and there is nothing very seemly in seeing a girl wait to wear her own part of it until it has been nicely padded with quilted satin. Looking at the matter from a less elevated point of view, long engagements are rather tiresome in restricting the liberty of girls. Miss Jennie, who is going to marry Mr Simpson as soon as that hopeful young man gets a living, is obliged in the meanwhile to deny herself many pleasures, lest Simpson should take offense. She must eschew balls, she must take care that nobody makes love to her and for this purpose she is obliged to let all chance comers be speedily informed of her engagement. Unhappily, the symbolism of rings is always unregarded, else the chance comers might discover the fact for themselves by looking at the second finger of Miss Jenny's left hand. If Jenny has no sister to talk of her betrothal, and if her mother does not accept timely hints to mention it on every necessary occasion, or the engagement is not announced in the Home Journal, the girl is rather embarrassed for words in which to convey the news delicately to strangers. She cannot allude to Mr Simpson as "Johnny"—that would be too familiar, she cannot speak of him as "Simpson," for this would sound strange, but if she refers to him frequently as 'Mr Simpson," strangers might draw undesirable inferences from her apparent familiarity with a person thus coldly specified. Then the engaged girl has to put up with a great deal of chaff, which is only pleasing for a while, and afterwards becomes intolerable. The trials of matrimony are frequently commended to her impatient attention by way of paternal rebuke "Ah, my dear, you will find out that I was right when you are a wife yourself'" and so forth or a snub is put upon her too hasty wish to consider herself free by the reminder that she is not married yet and that there is many a slip between cup and lip. Sometimes Simpson is actually held up to her as a bogey 'My dear, I don't think Mr Simpson would quite approve of your wearing that cherry ribbon' 'Jenny, dear, I think Mr Simpson would be sadly grieved if he heard you express those opinions" or, 'Jenny I am sure Mr Simpson would not think it proper that you should play croquet with Captain Mallet." There is enough in all this to make a girl sit down and scream

A Possible Premier of England

[From the St. Louis Globe Democrat]

Hartington, after twenty years in politics is still conspicuous chiefly as the son of a duke and the butt of a rail splitting and joke splitting president. In the early part of the war he distinguished himself in attending one of Lincoln's receptions by wearing a secession badge in his buttonhole. Old Abe's eye caught the badge as soon as his ear caught the name and as he squeezed the hand of the young prig he trod on his social corn with a brutal remark that he would always remember the name of Hartington because it rhymed with Partington. Hartington is now trying to wear Palmerston's breeches but they are rather baggy for him

GRANT AND LEE

The Conqueror's Story of the Surrender at Appomattox

J R Young's Around the World with Grant

On the night before Lee's surrender said General Grant I had a wretched headache—one of those headaches to which I have been subject—nervous prostration intense personal suffering. But suffer or not I had to keep writing. I saw clearly especially after Sheridan had cut off the escape to Danville that Lee must surrender or break and run into the mountains—break in all directions and have us a dozen guerrilla bands to hunt down. My part of my campaign was not Richmond not the defeat of Lee in actual fight but to remove him and his army out of the contest and if possible to have him use his influence in inducing the surrender of Johnston and the other isolated armies. You see the war was an enormous strain upon the country. Rich as we were I do not see how we could have endured it another year even from a financial point of view

So with these views I wrote Gen Lee and opened the correspondence with which the world is familiar. Lee does not appear well in that correspondence not nearly so well as he did in our subsequent interviews where his whole bearing was that of a patriot and gallant soldier concerned alone for the welfare of his army and his state. I received word that Lee would meet me at a point within our lines near Sheridan's headquarters. I had to ride quite a distance through a muddy country. I remember now that I was concerned about my personal appearance. I had an old suit on without my sword and without any distinguishing mark of rank except the shoulder straps of a lieutenant general on a woolen blouse. I was splashed with mud in my long ride. I was afraid Lee might think I meant to show him studied discourtesy by so coming—at least I thought so. But I had no other clothes within reach as Lee's letter found me away from my base of supplies. I kept on riding until I met Sheridan. The general who was one of the heroes of the campaign and whose pursuit of Lee was perfect in its generalship and energy told me where to find Lee. I remember that Sheridan was impatient when I met him anxious and suspicious about the whole business feared that there might be a plan to escape that he had Lee at his feet and wanted to end the business by going in and forcing an absolute surrender by capture. In fact he had his troops ready for such an assault when Lee's white flag came within his lines

I went up to the house where Lee was waiting. I found him in a fine new splendid uniform which only recalled my anxiety as to my own clothes while on my way to meet him. I expressed my regret that I was compelled to meet him in so unceremonious a manner, and he replied that the only suit he had available was one which had been sent by some admirers in Baltimore and which he then wore for the first time. We spoke of old friends in the army. I remembered having seen Lee in Mexico. He was so much higher in rank than myself at the time that I supposed he had no recollection of me. But he said he remembered me very well. We talked of old times and exchanged inquiries about friends. Lee then broached the subject of our meeting. I told him my terms, and Lee, listening attentively asked me to write them down. I took out my manifold order book and pencil and wrote them down. Gen Lee put on his glasses and read them over. The conditions gave the officers their side arms private horses and personal baggage. I said to Lee that I hoped and believed this would be the close of the war that it was most important that the men should go home and go to work, and the government would not throw any obstacles in the way. Lee answered that it would have a most happy effect, and accepted the terms. I handed over my penciled memorandum to an aid to put into ink and we resumed our conversation about old times and friends in the armies.

Various officers came in—Longstreet Gordon, Pickett from the south, Sheridan Ord and others from our side. Some were old friends—Longstreet and myself for instance—and we had a general talk. Lee, no doubt, expected me to ask for his sword but I did not want his sword. It would only said the general, smiling, have gone to the patent office to be worshipped by the Washington rebels. There was a pause, when Gen. Lee said that most of the animals in the cavalry and artillery were owned by the privates and he would like to know, under the terms whether they would be regarded as private property or the property of the government. I said that under the terms of the surrender they belonged to the government. Gen Lee read over the letter and said that was so. I then said to the general that I believed and hoped this was the last battle of the war, that I saw the wisdom of these men getting home to work as soon as possible and that I would give orders to allow any soldier or officer claiming a horse or mule to take it. General Lee showed some emotion at this—a feeling which I also shared—and said it would have a most happy effect. The interview ended and I gave orders for rationing his troops. The next day I met Lee on horseback and we had a talk. In this conversation I urged upon Lee the wisdom of ending the war by the surrender of the other armies. I asked him to use his influence with the people of the south—an influence that was supreme—to bring the war to an end. General Lee said that his campaign in Virginia was the last organized resistance which the south was capable of making—that I might have to march a good deal and encounter isolated commands here and there but there was no longer any army which could make a stand. I told Lee that this fact only made his responsibility greater and that any further war would be a crime. I asked him to go among the southern people and use his influence to have all men under arms surrender on the same terms given to the army of Northern Virginia. He replied that he could not do so without consultation with President Davis. I was sorry. I saw that the confederacy had gone beyond the reach of President Davis and that there was nothing that could be done except what Lee could do to benefit the southern people. I was anxious to get them home and have our armies go to their homes and fields. But Lee would not move without Davis and as a matter of fact at that time or soon after Davis was a fugitive in the woods

Lee was of a slow conservative cautious nature without imagination or humor always the same with grave dignity. I never could see in his achievements what justifies his reputation. This illusion that nothing but heavy odds beat him will not stand the ultimate light of history. I know it is not true. Lee was a good deal of a headquarters general—a desk general from what I can hear and from what his officers say. He was almost too old for active service—the best service in the field. At the time of the surrender he was 58 or 59 and I was 43

His officers used to say that he posed himself that he was retiring and exclusive and that his headquarters were difficult of access. I remember when the commissioners came through our lines to treat just before the surrender that one of them remarked on the great difference between our headquarters and Lee's. I always kept open house at headquarters so far as the army was concerned. My anxiety said the general for some time before Richmond fell was lest Lee should abandon it. My pursuit of Lee was hazardous. I was in a position of extreme difficulty. You see I was marching away from my supplies while Lee was falling back on his supplies. If Lee had continued his flight another day I should have had to abandon the pursuit fall back to Danville build the railroad and feed my army. So far as supplies were concerned I was almost at my last gasp when the surrender took place

LITERARY NOTES

A book of Chinese stories, by Pu Sung-ling, has been translated into English. It is said to be more remarkable for abundance of incident than felicity of plot

A bookworm has discovered that Lord Beaconsfield's alliterative phrase, 'man of light and leading,' in his letter to the duke of Marlborough occurs in one of Burke's orations

The library committee at Washington has purchased of the heirs of Daniel Webster portraits of the orator and of Lord Ashburton painted by Healey in 1845. They cost $1000 apiece at the time, and the two have been bought by congress for $6000

The first two parts in which the Brinley library was divided were sold for $81,884 02, and there are two more parts of this extraordinary collection to be sold. What these parts contain no one can say. It is rumored, however, that there is a copy of the Mazzarino Bible, for which $15,000 was paid.

The Athenæum states, appropos of the recently announced appointment of Mr James Russell Lowell to the post of American minister in London, that it is intended to bring out in England before long a collected edition of his poetical works, handsomely printed, in three crown octavo volumes

Of all the eulogies pronounced upon Dr William Ellery Channing at the various centennial celebrations of his birth, none could equal that of the Sydney Smith, who said at the close of a Sunday sermon once "Do not imagine that this sermon is mine—I cannot do such things, it is by an American, Dr Channing"

There seems to be a possibility, says the Examiner, that some unpublished letters from the hand of Burns may turn up in New Zealand. The other day there died at Dunedin Mr Robert Gilkison, a grandson of Richard Brown, who was a crony of the poet in Irvine, Ayrshire. For a number of years he had the custody of all the letters addressed to his grandfather by Burns

The High School Discussion.

Brooklyn, N Y, is discussing the high school innovation. The Eagle says

One-third of the children of this city to-day cannot be accommodated in the elementary class rooms. When the city finds itself able to teach every child its A B Cs and furnish text books free the time will have arrived perhaps, for setting up a high school. That time has not yet arrived, unless it be deemed wise for the city to copy certain colored gentlemen of imitative practices on the Island of Hayti who, without shoes or shirts adorn their extraordinary heads with high beaver hats. A diamond sparkling on a dirty shirt bosom, or a ring on an unclean hand, is not an imposing object, but the high hat the ring and the diamond misplaced are types of a high school in a city that not only does not furnish free books, but has to turn poor people's children away from the doors of the primary schools, because of a lack of room

A GOOD WEEK'S BUSINESS

The New York "Public's" Clearing House Statement.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN]

NEW YORK April 21—The clearing house exchanges for the week ending on the 17th are extraordinary in amount and show a gain at every city. Even San Francisco which has usually reported a decrease in exchanges now reports a gain. Following is the Public's detailed statement of gains New York 74 2 Boston 32 1 Philadelphia, 70 [illegible] Chicago 60 1 Baltimore 47 4 St Louis 30 3 Cincinnati 36 4 New Orleans 46 5 San Francisco 26 Pittsburg 55 6 Louisville 1[illegible] 6 Milwaukee 45 5 Providence 33 9 Cleveland 61 4 Indianapolis 3[illegible] 5 Kansas City 46 2, New Haven 47 Lowell 27 Syracuse 2 9. Commenting on these unusual figures the same journal says The returns are more satisfactory than any others received this year and the more so since the recent rapid decline in prices makes it reasonable to suppose that the given amounts of payments represent a larger quantity of products exchanged than would have been represented by the same amount one month ago. The aggregate this week is nearly $[illegible] 000,000 against $651 000 000 for the same week last year. Of New York's increase it is to be remarked that hardly a single week this year has speculation in stocks been so large as to materially affect the comparison of exchanges. Merchandise has been quite as actively dealt in and handled on speculation and has advanced in price quite as far beyond visible reason as any class of stocks. For example sales of wheat here last week were 533,[illegible] bushels though the quantity received here was only 512,000 and the quantity exported here only 85,000 bushels. In effect payments of which $1,[illegible] were required for wheat sold here last week though the entire quantity in store and received here could have been bought outright for half the money

The long talked of canal to connect Lakes Washington and Union is again being agitated. It will require eight or ten thousand dollars to cut the canal wide and deep enough to admit the passage of light draft steamers. Nearly half the latter amount was subscribed last summer and it is thought the necessary amount can be raised should the enterprise assume business like shape. A canal between the two lakes would open to settlement a large amount of valuable land on Lake Washington and Squak Slough which is now vacant

POLITICAL DRIFT.

PARTY CONVENTIONS IN A HALF A DOZEN STATES

A Good Deal of Presidential Wrangling with no very Definite Result—An Important Resolution by the Virginia Convention

[illegible] AT HEAD [illegible] THE [illegible]

STAUNTON, VA, April [illegible]—Republican state [illegible] the straight [illegible] straight outs and read [illegible] by [illegible] the [illegible] electors [illegible] and [illegible] committee on [illegible] delegates entitled to [illegible] reported the persistency [illegible] who had been unseated [illegible] disturbance

STAUNTON, VA, April [illegible]—After skirmish [illegible] the straight out re[illegible] for permanent chairman [illegible] Wickham received [illegible] votes [illegible]

STAUNTON, April [illegible]—The straight outs are [illegible] and [illegible] read [illegible] only five ma[illegible] Grant's name for president [illegible] with him they [illegible] Wickham [illegible] was elected chairman also declared [illegible] that [illegible] would unite [illegible] making Virginia a republican state. A resolution endorsing Grant declaring for the unit rule and leaving the electoral ticket to the central committee were referred to committee.

The committee finally reported back very strong Grant resolutions and a resolution for unit rule also calling a state convention for July 28 and [illegible] Blaine to accept the vice presidency thus assuring an invincible ticket. [illegible] reports offered on the electoral question caused an excited debate

STAUNTON, April 24—The convention adjourned [illegible] this morning. The delegates at large to the [illegible] convention are D S Lewis [illegible] Poindexter and [illegible] was elected [illegible] the state central committee

Blaine and the Vice Presidency

WASHINGTON April 23—Blaine is much annoyed at the resolution of the Virginia convention asking him to accept the vice presidency. He characterizes the request as ridiculous. There is reason to believe that Gorham and Cameron drafted the resolutions. The Blaine club claims six Ohio congressional districts for Blaine

WASHINGTON April 23—The suggestion in the Virginia convention that Blaine will be asked to the vice presidency on the Grant ticket comes directly from George C Gorham who has been conducting the Grant negotiations with the Mahone party in Virginia. It is the same idea with which Gorham has endeavored to weaken Blaine's support on the Pacific coast. Gorham has continued to repeat the suggestion when he knew there was no authority whatever for it. Even if Blaine could be personally induced to accept the vice presidency his political friends throughout the country and his immediate supporters in Maine would positively refuse to permit it but Blaine himself has no idea of any such thing preferring to retain his seat in the senate. It is a notable fact that it is only those politically hostile to Blaine who support the vice presidency scheme

Grand Row in the Georgia Republican Convention

ATLANTA GA April 22—The republican state convention held here to-day was characterized by bitter feeling and great excitement. The majority of the convention was largely colored. The convention was called to order at 10 o'clock and a contest at once began between the Grant and anti Grant men both of whom endeavored to obtain control of the organization. Two temporary chairmen were elected both taking the platform and demanding silence. The excitement was intense and amid cries and yells the convention assumed the shape of a mob. At last a compromise was had on a negro named Pledger. Several addresses were made to the convention. The committee on permanent organization finally reported Major W H Smyth, a Blaine man for president. The Grant men denounced this as a trick, and nominated a negro named Pleasant. The chairman put the question and amid great confusion declared Smyth elected. He took the chair while the confusion continued and the convention adjourned till to-morrow morning. The Grant men are holding a caucus to-night to determine their policy. They will demand a reconsideration of the vote on organization and if not accorded will cause serious trouble. A bolt is probable, and all parties are anxiously consulting to-night about to-morrow's programme

Another Noisy Session—An Absurd Resolution.

ATLANTA, April 22—The republican convention was in great disorder all day. Several exciting scenes occurred, and the same confusion as yesterday continued. The chair appointed a committee to nominate delegates to Chicago in spite of the protests of Grant men. While the committee was out the colored leaders raised the issue that they had not been accorded their rights in the party, and carried a resolution that three-fourths of the Chicago delegation be colored, and that the same proportion be observed in republican patronage in Georgia. The committee's report did not agree with their resolution and it was therefore tabled until to-morrow when all but white men will be stricken from the delegation. Grant may get some votes, but Sherman and Blaine men have control of the convention. The convention passed a resolution condemning the outrage on Cadet Whitaker, and calling on the administration to fully protect the colored cadets

The selection of delegates to the Chicago convention was the occasion of much wrangling and fierce debate. The Grant men rallied and secured more strength on the delegation than they hoped for yesterday. Fourteen colored delegates were chosen. W A. Pledger (colored) was put at the head of the state central committee and that committee was empowered to nominate electors at large. District electors and congressmen will be nominated by district conventions. Grant men claim 12 delegates but the general estimate is 8 for Blaine, 8 for Sherman and 6 for Grant. Various rumors are circulated about probable changes in the delegation but the anti Grant men are confident that they have gained a decided victory. Resolutions that delegates go uninstructed and consult the best interests of the party passed

Blaine Ahead

ATLANTA Ga April 23—The republican convention has been all the morning discussing the appointment of delegates to Chicago. It is evident that Blaine will get a majority of the delegation with six or eight votes. Sherman and Grant may have two votes. The convention is noisy and excited

Anti-Grant Meeting at Albany N. Y.

ALBANY April 22—The reform league and anti third [illegible] term [illegible] this morning, elected [illegible] chairman and appointed committees. Horace White reported resolutions opposing the machine and opposing a third term which were adopted. It was resolved to send a delegation to St. Louis. Several said they would not vote for Grant if nominated

COLUMBUS April 23—Gen Beatty admits Sherman's friends will control the coming state convention. While charging that that result is due to the efforts of moneyed corporations Blaine's friends claim 140 votes already heard from

GALVESTON April 22—The democratic state convention met here to-day. The two thirds rule was adopted. R B Hubbard J W Throckmorton John Ireland and Col. T W Jack, were elected delegates to Cincinnati

GALVESTON April 22—The democratic state convention adopted a resolution for the two third rule and instructed delegates and adopted a complimentary resolution to Gen. Hancock West Virginia for Blaine.

WHEELING April 24—A solid Blaine delegation was elected to the county convention to-day. Similar action has been taken all over the state which will doubtless send a Blaine delegation to Chicago

The Illinois Greenbackers

SPRINGFIELD Ill April 21—The greenbackers convention elected Congressman Forsythe president and delegates were chosen to the national convention from each congressional district and four at large. Also presidential electors. Resolutions were adopted the same as usual. The convention made the following nominations: Governor, A J Streeter. Lieutenant Governor, A. B. Adair and a full list of other officers, none of whom will be taken by either of the other parties

Connecticut Temperance Convention,

HARTFORD April 21—The prohibitionist convention met in this city to-day. Seventy-five delegates were present and Rev. E. B. Hillard was chosen president. A full state ticket was nominated. Presidential electors and delegates to the national prohibitory convention at Cleveland were also selected. Resolutions were adopted criticising the attitude of the democratic and republican parties, and of Governor Andrews toward the temperance party

The Concluding Work of Sammy's Convention.

SYRACUSE April 22—A resolution was adopted informing the Kelly convention that this convention reciprocate all expressions of desire for harmony and are persuaded the wisdom of the national convention will assure the triumph of the democratic party in New York and in the nation. A resolution favoring the two thirds rule was adopted. Abram S Hewitt was chosen elector at large. The resolutions denounce the elevation of Hayes to the presidency as a fraud declare Tilden elected in 1876 and warmly eulogize him, but making no instructions, they intimate that delegations should take such action as would present this issue of fraud most strongly that the people may have an opportunity to pass upon that infamous crime. The resolutions adopted in previous conventions are readopted here, declaring for the unit rule. For the rest, the resolutions deal [illegible] with the alleged fraudulent elevation of [illegible] Hayes. Following are delegates at large to the national convention: Lucius Robinson, [illegible] Pratt Rufus W Peckham and Lester W. [illegible] Alternates William H Anderson, Jas [illegible] huck, E B Hartand, L A, Parmenter. [illegible] filling vacancies on the state committee [illegible] vention at 12.30 adjourned.
